POPULAR GARDENING

'Tis a pity to let the weeds go to seed now.

A last sowing of early table beets may be made.

Spinach for fall marketing may be sown now.

Flat early turnips are a good thing to sow on the vacant ground from which crops have been removed.

Keep the soil stirred about the late cabbage plants.

Late peas, lettuce and winter radishes are sown in August.

By taking advantage of a time when the ground is moist high beans may be sown for a while in August. The stringless green pod might be tried.

Turnips are often sown broadcast, but sowing in drills makes it easier to thin and cultivate them.

The fall gardener might try a last sowing of an early variety of sweet corn. When favorable weather holds on good corn is sometimes picked late in October.

Too early banking of celery is often the cause of rust. Some gardeners say banking should not begin before the middle of September.

The lettuce plants that are going to seed are quickly pulled up, and poultry relish them amazingly.

Frequent hoeing and a little liquid manure will help eggplants along very much.

Advantages of Cave Dwelling.

In the days of the cave dweller the English climate was very hot and the cave made a cool retreat.

Banana Flour.

Banana flour is sold in London. Demand is small and price high. One merchant puts the cost at $120 a ton. At the place of manufacture bananas are dried and reduced to a powder. This powder is used chiefly as a diet for children and invalids. It is supposed to be serviceable in cases of gastritis and dyspepsia.

TIED MAN TO FLY WHEEL

Diabolical Murder In Cement Works at New Brighton

VICTIM WHIRLED TO PIECES

Arm and Leg Hang to Rope Attached to Rapidly Revolving Shaft While Trunk Lies Bleeding on Factory Floor.

For fiendish ingenuity the murder of Frank Getzner, an employee of the J. B. Kling Plaster works, at New Brighton, N. Y., who was killed on a recent night by being tied to the revolving shaft of a fly wheel by his companions, has probably never been surpassed.

The body of Getzner was found by the day workmen, stripped of clothing and beaten to a pulp by being whirled and thrashed against the beams of the roof and the machinery beneath. It was almost unrecognizable. Getzner was in charge of the "night shift," whose duty it is to clean up the mill each night and have it ready for the day workmen. His force consisted of about fifty Poles and Italians. Getzner had reported one of the men, who is known only as "No. 203," to Superintendent S. W. Fancher for being lax in his work. The superintendent called the man up and severely reprimanded him before his companions.

Suddenly "No. 203" went back to work and immediately began fomenting trouble among his associates, with whom he apparently had great influence. Getzner was told by Superintendent Fancher to keep "No. 203" near him and to see that he did his full share of the work.

Getzner carried out these instructions and narrowly escaped death three times by "accidents" caused by the carelessness of his fellow workmen. The "night shift" went on as usual the night of Getzner's death, and the work of cleaning was going along until some time about daylight. From their investigations at this time, the corner and police say that a gang of Getzner's companions gathered up the short bits of rope used to tie up salt and plaster bags and made a rope of about twenty-five or thirty feet by tying these shorter bits together. The rope is very strong.

"It would almost hold a locomotive," Superintendent Fancher said. Suddenly Getzner was seized by his companions and, while he was held, some one tied the rope about his feet and ankles. The room showed that he fought terrifically for his life. The free end of the rope was then passed over the revolving shaft a couple of times and held until it "took hold." Slowly the shaft began to wind up the slack rope, the men holding Getzner, the coroner says, until it was taut. The next turn Getzner was jerked from his feet and suspended in the air until he was drawn up to the shafting. He was then beaten against the beams and machinery until dead. The man's left arm and leg were torn from his body.

Waltzed Fourteen Hours.

Signor Guattiero, champion Italian waltzer, offered a prize of $200 for anybody who could outwaltz him. Three Frenchmen, an Italian and a Russian accepted the challenge. The contest took place in the Tivoli Vauxhall dancing hall in Paris. Guattiero won easily. He waltzed unceasingly for fourteen hours, during which a compatriot, Polidori, played the piano steadily, performing fifty-four waltzes.

CONFIRMED PROOF.

Residents of Barre Cannot Doubt What Has Been Twice Proved.

In gratitude for complete relief from aches and pains of bad back—from distressing kidney ills—thousands have publicly recommended Doan's Kidney Pills. Residents of Barre, who so testified years ago, now say their cures were permanent. This testimony doubly proves the worth of Doan's Kidney Pills to Barre kidney sufferers.

G. W. Brown, carpenter, of 11 Brook street, Barre, Vt., says: "Since I gave my first statement recommending Doan's Kidney Pills some eight years ago I have never failed to advise their use whenever occasion has arisen. I had strained myself and it affected my kidneys and weakened my back. I paid little attention to it at first, but my back kept getting worse and worse and there was considerable difficulty with the kidney secretions, which were highly colored and very annoying especially at night. I learned of Doan's Kidney Pills and procured a box at E. A. Brown's drug store. After I had taken them a few days I noticed the pain in my back was not so bad and the kidney secretions were becoming more natural. I continued using Doan's Kidney Pills until entirely free from my former troubles. Since that time I have used them on different occasions when I have suffered from slight attacks and always with success, and I have recommended them to others time and time again. In the case of a friend who was suffering from a bad case of kidney trouble the use of this remedy absolutely cured him."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburne Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Disease Resistant Crops.

Some instances may be cited to show just what is meant by resistant or immune varieties and their value. Grapes furnish a striking example. European grapes planted in this country fall wherever the American grape root louse is present because the louse is able to attack and destroy the roots of these varieties. The roots of native American grapes are also attacked by the same louse, but are so hard and wiry that the louse cannot destroy them. In other words, they are resistant. The unusual resistance of the Keiffer pear to blight has made it possible to grow this pear in the southern states, where most other varieties fall because of blight. The variety of cowpea known as Little Iron has proved so resistant to wilt disease that in some fields it has survived when all other varieties have been killed by the disease. American gooseberries are but little subject to the mildew which seriously affects the larger English varieties grown here. With nearly every crop grown some of its varieties are more resistant or immune to some disease or insect attack than others.
